

Grammar to Go: Which Witch is Which?

Here it is our second Grammar to Go®! In honor of Halloween, this lesson will be about Witches and Which-es. One of these words refers to a woman trained in the dark arts, the other is a word that asks a person to choose between options. So which Witch is which? This should be an easy one.

Glinda here is a witch. That is spelled W-I-T-C-H. Witch. She practices witchcraft; not whichcraft. Which craft does she practice?

Witchcraft. Do I endorse the practice of witchcraft? No. Please do not call the Church and have me hanged.

Which is a preposition— it is used like this:
Which Goomba in the left is Neon green?
Which one is Pink?
 (Yes, I know you can't tell because it's a photocopy, go with me here, people...)

Which Witch is Which: Practice

- _____ Video game system is the best, PS2 or XBOX?
- Dorothy meets the wicked _____ of the West in the Wizard of Oz.
- Do you know _____ store is the cheapest place to buy the shoes?
- _____ car gets the best gas mileage? That is an important feature for me.
- In the opening lines of Macbeth the three _____ sing, "Double double toil and trouble...Something wicked this way comes."

The Super Sentence: The Ultimate example for using Today's Grammar to Go.

Which type of witch would you be for Halloween? I would chose McGonagall from Harry Potter because of her take-no-guff-from-anybody attitude.